

WASTE FREE EDMONTON AND NOT LADYLIKE COMMUNITY PRESENT

CLIMATE CHATS

WHO IS THIS FOR?

You are worried about the current and future effects of the climate crisis, but don't know what to DO about it. You want to deepen your dialogue with likeminded people, but can't seem to find those people. You are overwhelmed by your feelings about the climate emergency. Best for mature teens and older, and English speakers.

WHAT IS IT?

Throughout our evening together, our Climate Chats facilitator will guide you through various exercises designed to help you explore and name your big feelings, practice listening, and tap into your values to plan your next action.

The framework for our Climate Chats is inspired by circles, conversations, and knowledge from experts across the globe who focus directly on addressing the psychological effects of the climate emergency in community.

WHY YOU'LL LOVE IT

The pervasiveness of the climate emergency takes a heavy toll. Unfortunately, when we become disengaged from our feelings or allow them to overwhelm us, we start to live outside of alignment with our environmental values. This group will put you in touch with your community to address your big feelings, build hope and motivation, and take action – together.

ACCESSIBILITY INFO

Bus, train, bike or drive to the Edmonton Public Library's Milner branch downtown. This is a wheelchair accessible building, with barrier free washrooms. The meeting room table has legs at both ends, and armless plastic chairs. There is no ASL interpreter. Masks are encouraged, but not required.

COST $10

This ensures the sustainability of future Waste Free Edmonton events, and allows us to continue to pursue our mandate of reduce wasting generated in Edmonton by engaging with government, businesses, organizations and citizens.

MARCH, JUNE, AND OCTOBER 2024

6:30 TO 8:30 PM

The specific dates will be posted 60 days in advance, once we have secured the location.
